The Board of Education

Men Who Serve Untiringly

BOARD OF EDUCATION: Raymond Nickerson (vice-president), Roy Hanson, Roscoe Baugher (treasurer), Paul O. Graves (superintendent of schools), Bryan English (president), George Jobson, James Finney (secretary).

In each public school there is a group of leaders who must step forward and accept the tremendous responsibility of making all decisions.

These decisions range from the problems of school activities and functions to the monetary obligations of the school.

Since these decisions are so important, the representatives must be of excellent character. Each one of the present representatives has in mind a certain ideal for the students and their environment. Each of them, working together, helps to achieve these ideals.

OUR STATE SUPERVISOR of Education, Chester Calvert, makes regular inspection trips to our school to offer advice and recommendations to Mr. Graves for the smooth operation of a school system.

Tomorrow's Leaders ---Today

PUTTING THEIR HEADS TOGETHER while planning their next strategy are Coach Suddarth and the active members of the Bulldog team.

DISORDER AND CONFUSION are always present in the girls' dressing room on the day that group pictures are taken.

COMING OUT VICTORIOUS in an ice-cream eating contest at the Christmas Dance is Johnny Anderson. The losers don't seem to mind.

DISSECTION of FROGS in biology class proved to be a project that was fascinating and pleasant to some students and repulsive and nauseating to others.

AUTOGRAPHING the school annual is exciting at the moment. In years to come memories of school life are enhanced by looking at the signatures.

ONE HIGHLIGHT of the JUNIOR year is the day the class rings arrive. Awe-struck Linda Gillespie, Beverly Baugher, Ralph Switzer, and Gary Pettit admire theirs.

ENJOYING a class picnic at the Bucklin Reservoir on the last day of school are various members of the junior class.

Acquisition of New Furnishings

FURNITURE SHIPMENT was made in a trailer truck. When the truck pulled up to the school, Galen Switzer helped Mr. Dowell with the unloading.

CAUTIOUSLY CARRYING in a brand new desk are very efficient workers and careful readers, our custodian and Ronnie Jackson.

MUCH HUSTLE and BUSTLE took place in the Bucklin School as the recently delivered desks were unpacked and taken to each room.

An important cargo arrived on a very memorable day in September, 1962. The new desks, ordered back in the summer by the board of education, had finally arrived.

Willing hands, furnished by several high school boys, helped unload the much-awaited furniture. The boxes containing approximately two hundred desks and chairs and thirteen typing tables were stacked in the hall. After they were uncrated, the little children helped carry them proudly to their rooms. The desks added color and attractiveness to the classrooms.

The desks are of modern design. They have comfortable and sturdy chairs and durable writing surfaces. They are of gay pastel colors--yellow, blue, pink, and white.

Not only were the desks an improvement in the appearance of the schoolrooms, but they also gave each student a responsibility to keep them looking sparkling new.

In addition to regular desks, special left-handed chairs were also purchased. The P. T. A. acquired new furniture for the lounge. It, too, is of modern design.

The home economics department is happy with its new sewing machine. It is an automatic zig-zag model.

The entire student body, from the first grade on up to the twelfth grade, is proud of the new furnishings.

SPIRITS WERE HEIGHTENED for the South Paws by the purchase of eight left-handed chairs. Melvin Bradley is doing his spelling lesson.

LOOKING OVER and ADMIRING the shining new desks are the happy members of the third grade and their teacher, Mrs. Edith Lewis.

INSTRUCTIONS for using the new zig-zag sewing machine, which is the pride of the home economics class, are given to Karen Morris by Miss Potts.

"EVEN THE EXCITEMENT of NEW FURNITURE can't keep this boy from working," says Mr. Graves, as he checks Randy Payne's desk for correct size.

Coronation

On November 30, 1962, the Bucklin Annual Homecoming game was held and the Homecoming King and Queen were elected by secret ballot by people attending the game. The candidates were previously elected by their classes. At the half of the boys' game a hush fell over the crowd as the candidates were introduced. First came freshman candidates, Vicki Hill and David Schillinger. Next came sophomores, Nelda Johnson and Stanley Noah. The junior candidates, Karen Morris and Ted Holmlund, then entered. Following this, senior candidates, Carolyn Whisenand and Jim Overstreet, came in. A ball containing the names of the king and queen was tossed to Gary Varner and the senior candidates, Carolyn Whisenand and Jim Overstreet, ascended the stairs. They were crowned Homecoming King and Queen of the year Nineteen Hundred and Sixty-Three.

Highlights

Each year a girl out of each class who participates in basketball is elected by the boys' basketball team to be a candidate for the Valentine Sweetheart game. The night of the Valentine game each candidate is represented by a box in the hall and everyone attending the game may cast one ballot for his favorite candidate. This year the candidates were: freshman, Vicki Hill; sophomore, Brenda King; junior, Nancy Heaton; and senior, Donna Ervie. At the half of the boys' game the band formed a heart and the Valentine Box containing the Valentine Sweetheart was rolled in. Then the Valentine Sweetheart, Donna Ervie, was presented with a spray of carnations and a kiss from the captain of the boys' team, Ted Holmlund. The other candidates were then escorted in and presented with a rose. The Valentine Sweetheart song was sung by the audience. The Valentine Sweetheart, candidates, and escorts then left the floor to the strains of "Moments to Remember," played by the band.

FLOWER ARRANGEMENTS provide an interesting hobby and pastime for Miss Potts. She has just completed this one for the home economics department.

MOWING the GRASS on the school property is no small job, and Mr. Dowell spends many hours completing this task.

Non-Teaching Personnel

AS AN EXTRA PRECAUTIONARY measure for safety, a regular bus inspection is held. One of the patrolmen is shown here checking Leroy Hanson's bus.

KEEPING BUSES in top running condition is a huge responsibility for Harold Johnson, Cy Carter, Russell Liebhart, Leroy Hanson, Ralph Burris, and Albert Molloy.

THESE ENERGETIC pupils add a bit of amusement to the cooks' routine as they always have a toothache or a special pet's illness to draw the sympathy of the cooks. Many of the children make special drawings and pictures for the cooks.

"THERE SEEMS to be a shortage of peanut butter," seems to be Mrs. Marcusson's comment as she efficiently takes inventory of the supplies needed in the school lunch program.

Work of the non-teaching personnel is never-ending. The janitor puts in many hours of work before and after the students arrive for the day.

The bus drivers drive many miles every morning and evening transporting students to and from school. Outside activities consume more time than would be anticipated, but the courteous bus drivers are always on the job.

Popular among all of the students and faculty are the cooks. Preparing nourishing meals for the entire student body and the faculty is not an easy task but the cooks do their job with zest.

LEARNING

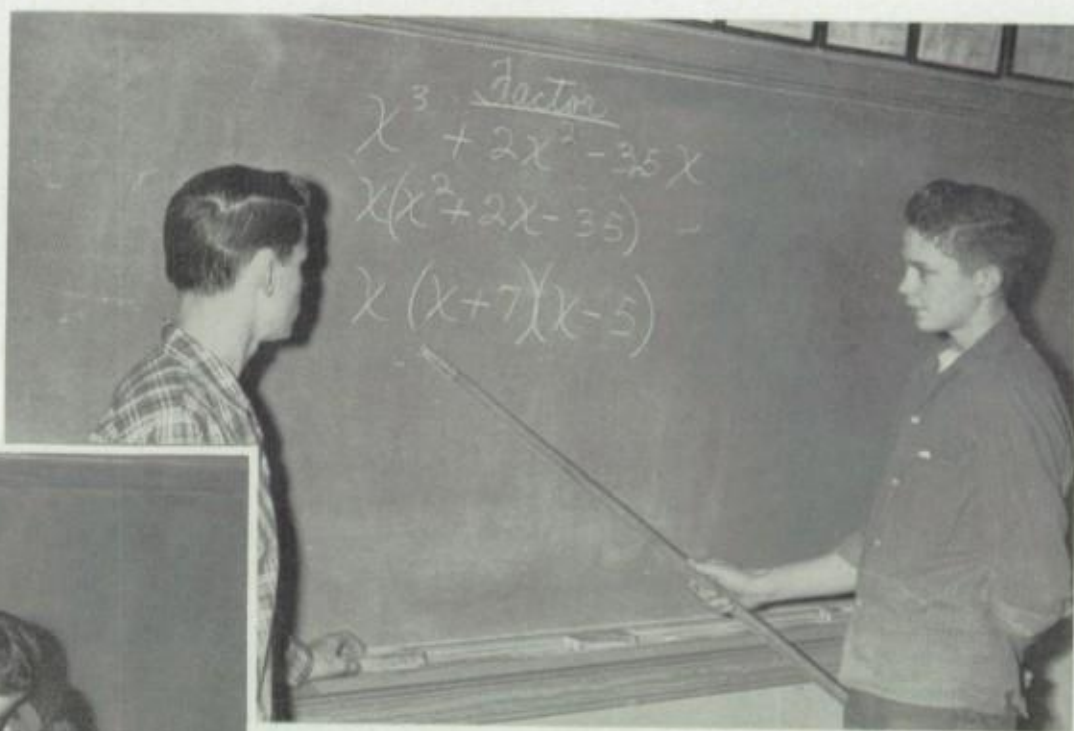

DETERMINING HOW HYDROGEN can be used to remove oxygen from oxides is the objective of the experiment being performed in the chemistry laboratory.

Science and Mathematics

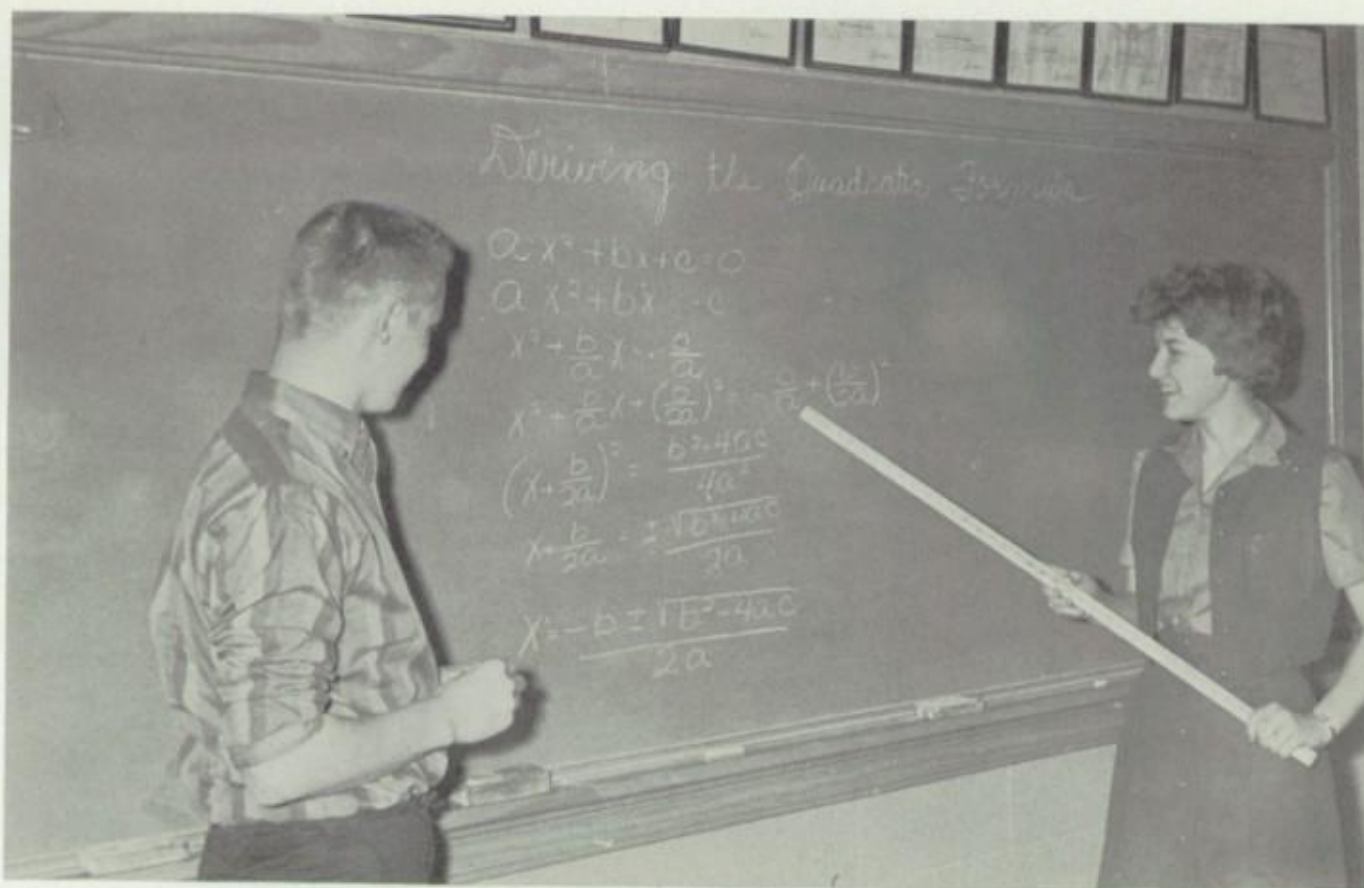

Challenging and Promising Studies

MATHEMATIC STUDENTS frequently go to Mr. Kelso's room to obtain information. Mr. Kelso enjoys helping Gary Pettit and Robert Davis with a trigonometric problem.

FACTORING is the TOPIC for discussion in the algebra class as Melvin Bradley and George Arbuckle go to the board to demonstrate the principles to the remainder of the class.

LEARNING HOW TO DERIVE the quadratic formula is not an easy task. Beverly Baugher shows Gary Varner the correct procedure while giving him a detailed explanation.

The fields of science and math offer many challenges to the youth of today. In order to prepare for these challenges, they must prepare now for the future. This preparation is done by taking the proper courses in high school. At Bucklin, the student is offered a wide variety of science and math courses. These courses include: trigonometry, chemistry, general science, biology, algebra I and II. At least one science and one math course is required for the student to graduate.

"SEEING IS BELIEVING" is an old saying that proves itself true. Here the biology students look at slides through the microscopes.

English and Social Science

Key to All Learning

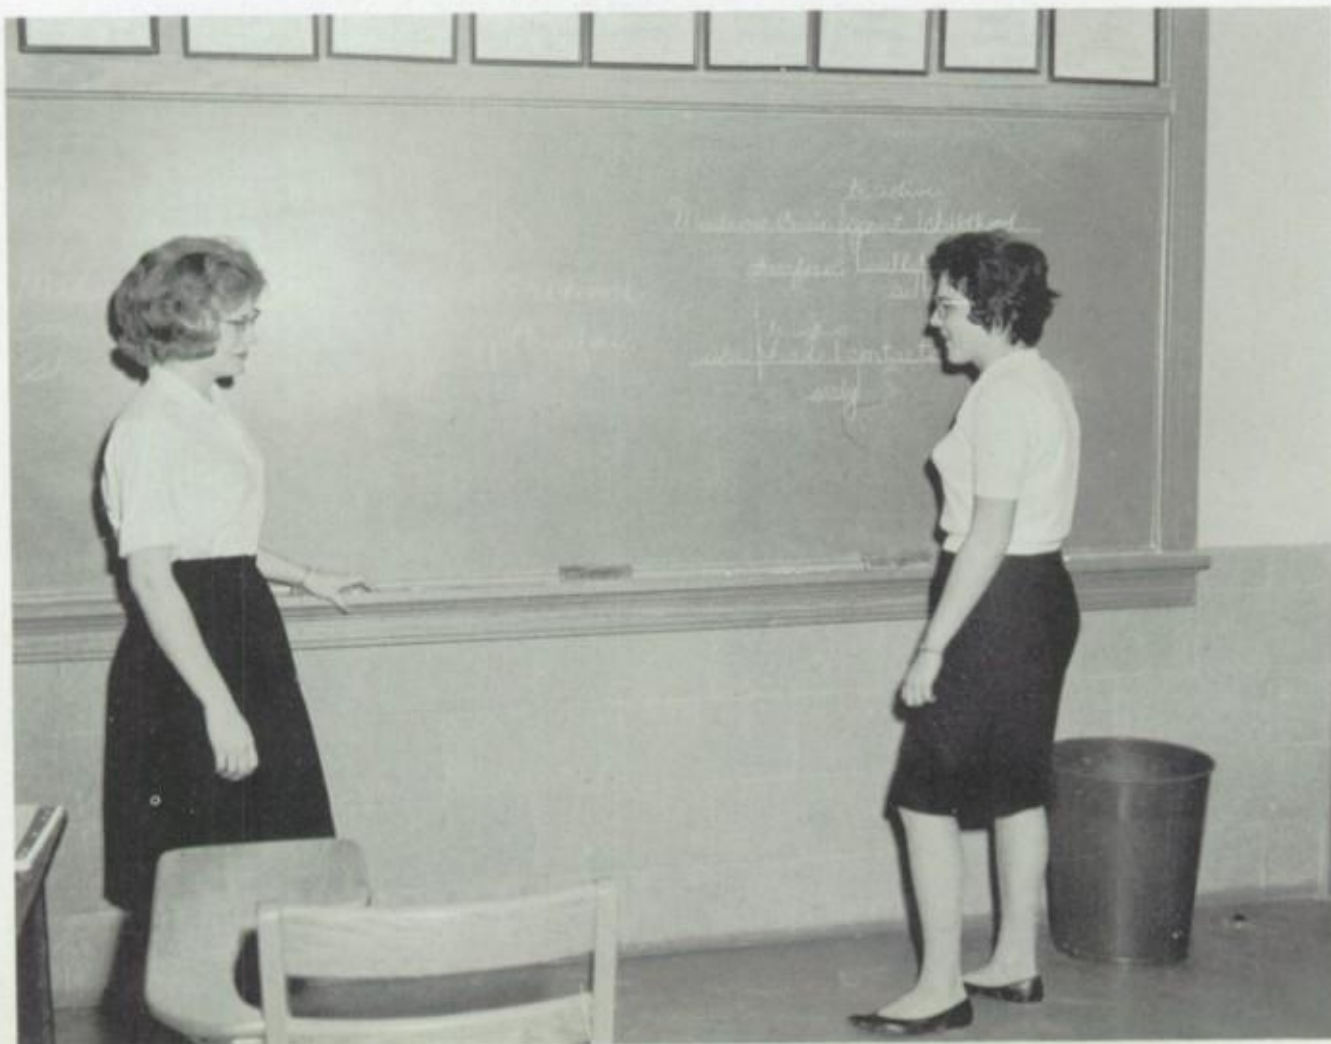

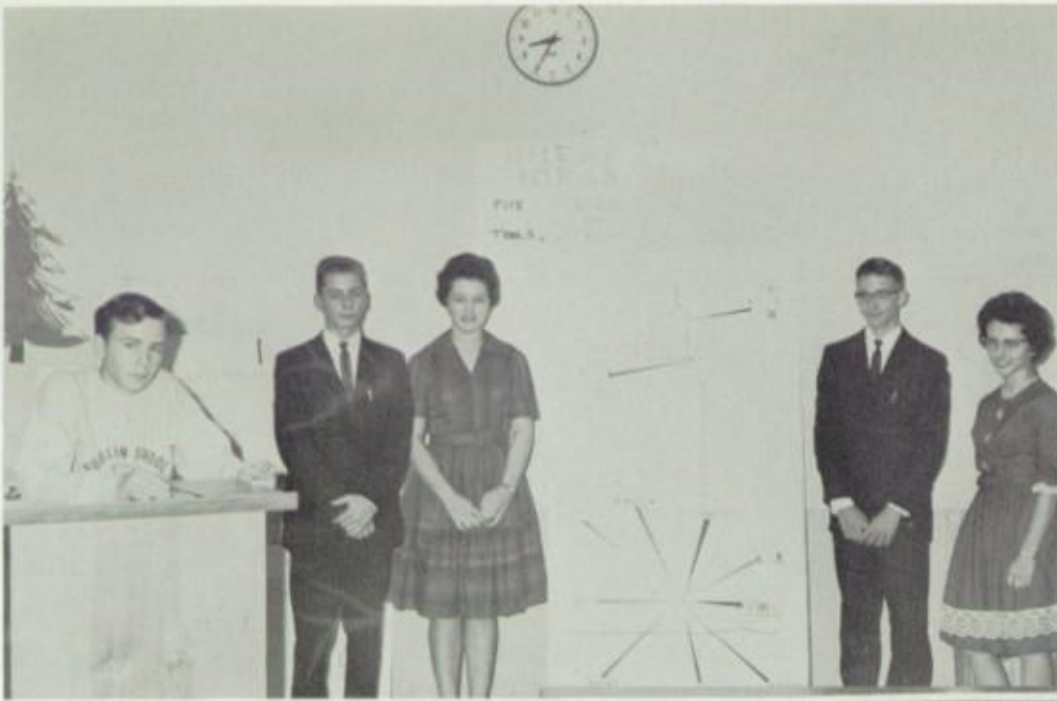

INDIVIDUAL SPEAKING EXPERIENCE was gained by the Planned Progress speakers. Rama Head is shown while she gives her report at the local P.T.A. meeting.

Thorough study of social science and English is an enlightening experience to lead the student to a more vivid picture of life in the past. It also aids in the understanding of the present and gives partial explanation of the promises of the future.

The courses in history, both world and American, and citizenship present the facts of former ways of life, while the courses in English are a way of representing the fictional phases of life in the past.

"YOU ALWAYS PUT the SUBJECT and PREDICATE on the same line," says Susan Lacer to Barbara Hunt. Learning to diagram a sentence is one of the major goals of the sophomore student.

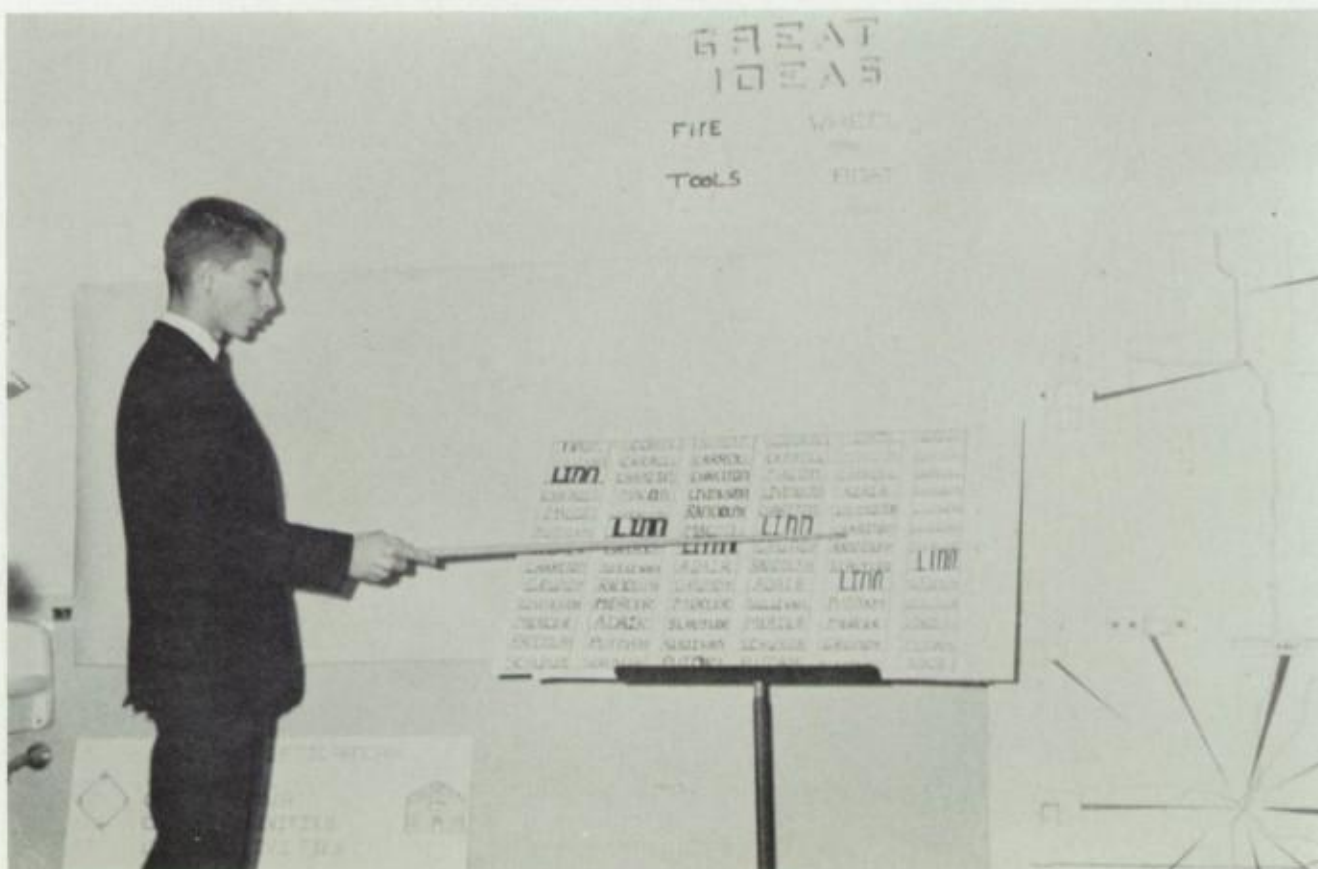

PLANNED PROGRESS representatives were Reavis Hill, David Schillinger, Rama Head, Dennis Burnett, and Vicki Hill.

NOVEL EXPERIENCE was gained by members of the freshman English class as they recited limericks, stressing rhythm and rhyme, into a microphone. Several students were unfamiliar with their own voices as they listened to them over the recorder.

MANY MAPS and CHARTS were prepared by the freshmen as the time neared for the Planned Progress Dinner. David Schillinger is using one of these in pointing out how much wheat was produced in Linn County.

Home Economics and Art

Creative Skills Developed

REFURBISHING and RENOVATING old furniture and accessories was an assignment that Judy Davolt and Karen Morris enjoyed to the fullest extent.

Girls who take home economics have a wide scope in mind for their future lives as Homemakers of America. It offers text and experimental instructions in sewing, cooking, family life, nutrition, and the many other responsibilities that each girl will face in her future home.

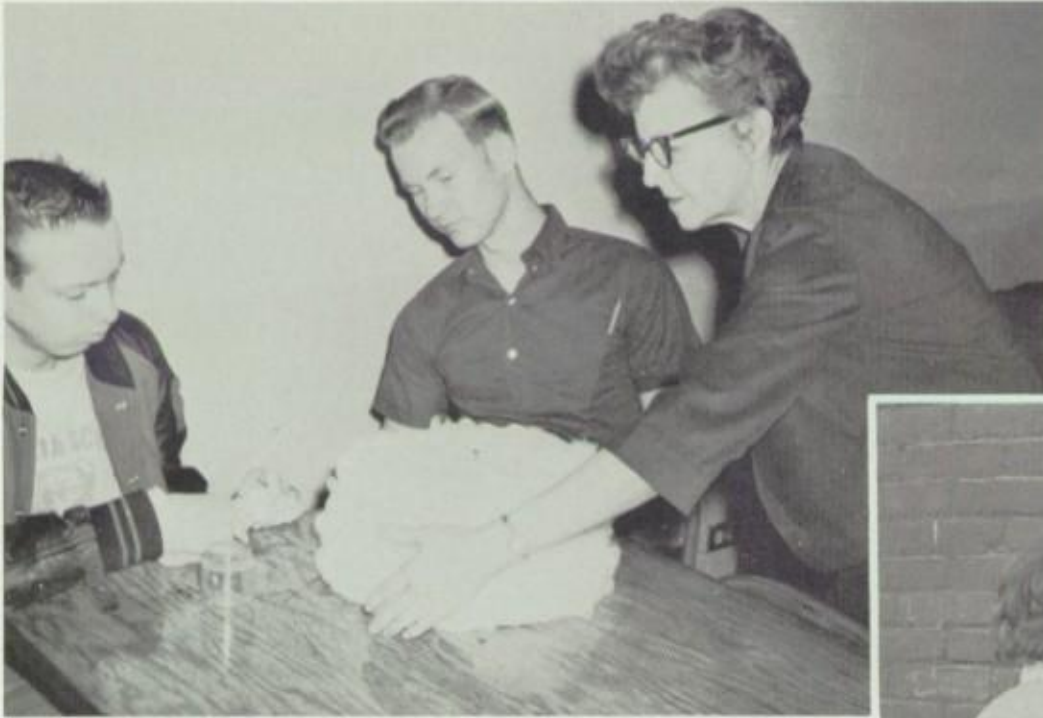

Future Homemakers of America is the organization that coincides with home economics. It offers an opportunity to meet with girls from other towns who are interested in the same things.

THOROUGH PRESSING of a garment helps to give it that professional look. Susan Lacer painstakingly completes her dress.

"DISHWASHING CAN BE FUN when it is done in friendly surroundings," says Dorothy Switzer to Carolyn Walker. Miss Potts teaches her students that washing dishes is as much a part of homemaking as preparing meals.

"COTTON FOR CAKE ICING may not sound so appetizing, but it makes a very attractive cake," says Miss Cannon to two of her art students.

ART STUDENTS were invited by the Bucklin Chamber of Commerce to paint downtown store windows at Christmas. Two art members are shown busy painting.

For those with ability in the creative arts, several courses are offered. Each new production is a victory in itself, as it leads to more perfect results.

Art is a means of self-expression. It is an opportunity to develop other person's ideas into your own fancies.

Miss Cannon is a great aid in this process, as she manages to guide your thinking to a point of enlightenment and realization. Then you are on your own to add the finishing touches.

THREE DIMENSIONAL PROJECTS were made by the art students. This one, constructed of plaster of Paris and painted with tempera, shows the abilities of David Jones and Jimmy Overstreet.

Commerce and Industrial Arts

*Practical Arts
Round Out Curriculum*

EVERY TRANSACTION must be recorded correctly in bookkeeping. Eugene Liebhart and Marilyn Bailey take special interest to make sure theirs is exactly as it should be.

BI-MONTHLY the Tel-it-al is published by the students of the secretarial practice class. Peggy Aderton is shown drawing a cartoon on a stencil.

Commercial classes offer a background for students who wish to be leaders in the business world.

The five commercial classes offered are: general business, bookkeeping, typing, shorthand, and one new class, secretarial practice. In this class a better background is provided for future secretaries.

The general business and bookkeeping classes are necessary for any chosen field, whether it be housewife, or skilled bookkeeper.

MEMBERS of the SECRETARIAL PRACTICE CLASS work diligently to publish the Tel-it-al twice monthly.

CAREFUL PLANNING and CONSTRUCTION goes into the making of wood products. Ralph Switzer and Ben Twitchel are sanding a desk as Wayne Cunningham and John Neff are putting the finishing touches on a cedar chest.

POWER SAWS are very useful but can be dangerous if a person is careless in using them. Marcus Collins shows David Taylor the correct way to hold a board while trimming it.

Industrial arts is the key to the door of success in each man's future. It presents the problems linked with the construction of articles designed of wood, metal, leather, glass, and electricity while under the surveillance of one especially trained for guidance of students in this particular field. Through this training, a student learns the advantages and disadvantages of professions in this field and they are able to acquire the feeling of satisfaction upon completion of a major project.

Industrial arts offer training for the future do-it-yourself man, the husband who insists on doing his own building, and for those who feel a sense of achievement in this type of creativeness.

DRIVER TRAINING classes provide skillful experience for those students who wish to become good drivers. Mr. Meeks carefully explains parts of the car to the students before taking them out for a drive.

Physical Education and Nine Point Health Program

Physical Fitness Essential

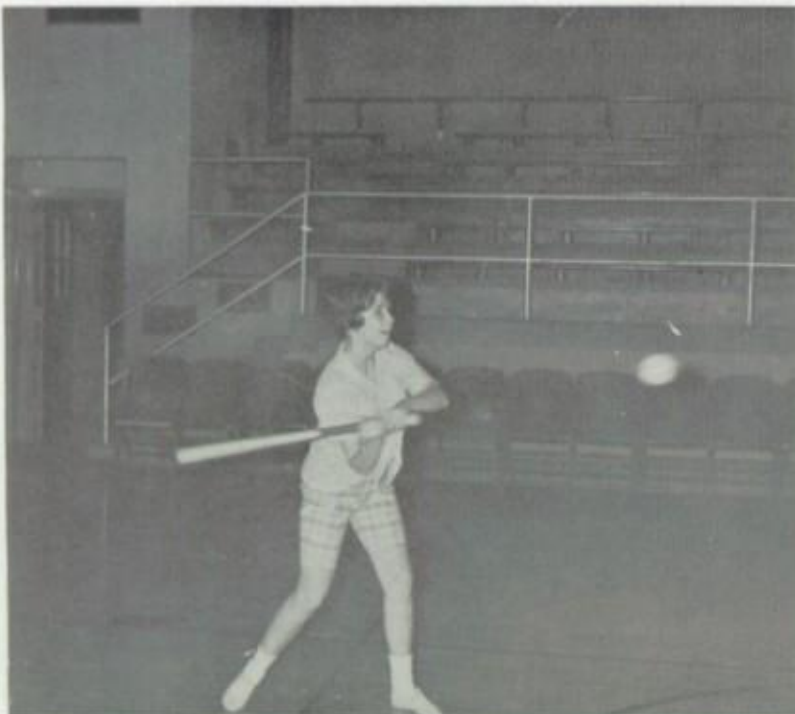

CHEST X-RAYS are given periodically to students as a precautionary measure to halt the spread of lung diseases. Linda Gillespie is shown in the traveling x-ray mobile unit.

WHIFFLE BALL is played frequently by the girls' physical education class. Marilyn Hayes swings at the ball in an attempt to save the game for her teammates.

"STRIKE TWO," says the umpire, as Betty Twitchel strikes at another high ball. Her teammates wait with anxiety until their chance to bat.

ATTEMPTING TO HIT an opponent, Marcus Collins throws the ball with all of his might in an excitingly close game of dodge ball. His teammates eagerly await the chance to put someone on the other team out.

"BREATHE DEEPLY," says one of the doctors to Gerald Akins. Before a person can play on the basketball team he or she must pass a thorough examination by a physician.

Physical education goes hand in hand with mental instruction to form well-rounded individuals.

Exercise is offered in the form of softball, volleyball, whiffle ball and various other activities.

Also important in this strife for good physical being is the health check given for the benefit of the persons who participate in athletics.

While striving for body perfection, mental skill is also required for cooperation with fellow students and proper development in forming the perfect individual.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLASSES are designed to promote strength, coordination and body control.

MUSIC

THE MARCHING BAND stands at attention, proudly recalling many of the parades they participated in.

Bulldog Band

TWIRLING Nancy Lambert, Diana Burnett, Linda Gillespie (head majorette), MAJORETTES Karen Jackson, Nancy Heaton.

Through the marching season, Mr. Foot consistently led the Bucklin Bulldog Band to a high rank among high school musicians. The band offered its marching ability and pep to participate in the New Cambria Fall Festival, Ethel's Harvest Day Jubilee, Brookfield's 4-H Parade, and Marceline's Farmers' Day Parade. The performers looked forward to each parade and marching in "the blustery weather and ending up with blistered feet." University of Missouri Band Day was especially enjoyed by the bandsmen.

In place of the Fall Concert, the marching band performed on the baseball field presenting Squad Drill competition. Each senior band member was in charge of a small squad of underclassmen to train the facing movements of marching band.

Each year the Bulldog Band presents a half-time show at the Homecoming game and Valentine Sweetheart game to inspire, enlighten, and boost the spirit of all who attend the games.

Concert

The membership in Concert Band this year includes several junior high students as well as the high school students. This has enabled us to a greater variety of music. Our well-rounded selections of music includes marches, "pops," show tunes, a bit of jazz, and more modern work of classical music.

The Concert Band has performed at the annual Fox Hunt in the fall, the Christmas Concert, and the Spring Concert, following the District Festival at Kirksville.

A class in "band" has often been considered to be a "snap course." It is definitely not the case here, as a great deal of work must go into each class period. The quality of music is far from "easy," but its mastering is exceedingly impressive, as can be remembered in the appearances of the Concert Band this year.

Feminine Voices Harmonize

ONE of the ENSEMBLES REPRESENTING Bucklin at the District Festival was the girls' trio, Beverly Baugher, Karen Morris, Nancy Heaton.

SIX VOICES BLENDING together in close harmony are: Carol Millsap, Wanda Hughes, Nancy Lambert, Donna Ervie, Marilyn Bailey, Dena Grable.

Students Enjoy Christmas Music

"FALLING SNOWFLAKES" and "The Carol of the Drum" were two of the songs sung by the mixed chorus at the Christmas Concert.

A HUMAN CHRISTMAS TREE of fifth and sixth graders presented a choral interpretation of the Christmas spirit.

POSING FOR THEIR PICTURE are some of the winners of the Tri-County Conference track meet at Brookfield. They are: Sandra Burris, Karen Hill, Leora Davis, and Peggy Aderton.

WINNING a FIRST PLACE MEDAL at the Conference Track Meet takes lots of training. Nancy Heaton is trying for a repeat of 1962's victory and Leora Davis is viewing the same goal.

Track is a term used to designate competition among individuals in running, walking, hurdling, jumping, and throwing.

Bucklin girls find that track is a popular sport. The invigorating spring weather challenges them to attain high goals in competition with other teams and spurs them on to high ideals in sportsmanship.

Girls who went out for the 1962 track season are: Nancy Heaton, Brenda King, Sandra Burris, Karen Hill, Leora Davis, Peggy Aderton, and Frances Mendenhall.

IN ORDER to WIN a medal at a track meet, an athlete must follow basic rules. Karen Hill proudly displays her medal with a look of satisfaction.

TOP SPEED throughout the race is a must in the 440-yard relay event. Peggy Aderton demonstrates her athletic ability to wear the school colors as she speeds down the track.

VICTORY for the BUCKLIN BULLDOGS in the 880 relay was assured as Gary Varner reached the finishing mark with the baton in his hand.

BULLDOG WINNERS of the relay race at the Tri-County Conference Meet are: Gary Varner, John Cupp, Marcus Collins, and Gary Pettit.

At a track and field meet, runners race around an oval track, kicking up cinders as they sprint toward the finish line. On another part of the field, other athletes compete in jumping and throwing contests.

When the 1962 track season started, the Bucklin track team was well conditioned for the meets in which they were to participate.

Bucklin tied for second place with Callao in the Tri-County Conference Track Meet held in Brookfield.

DETERMINATION is shown by the expression on Gary Varner's face as he runs the 220 low hurdle at a track meet held on the home field.

Bucklin Softball Team Captures Third Place

The girls placed third in the Conference Tournament of 1962.

downed by the Liberty girls with a score of 4 to 14. Their third game was with Linneus in which the Bulldogs were well ahead with a score of 21 to 1.

The 1962 softball season proved to be exciting and a worth-while season for the girls.

FIRM GRIPS are shown by these three girls who held the highest batting averages for the 1962 softball team. Karen Hill ended the season with a .750 average, Leora Davis with .731, and Nancy Heaton with .684.

THAT LOOKS like a good one! That is the expression on Linda Gillespie's face as she attempts to make another hit for the Bucklin Softball team.

SHOWING VERY good running stride is Linda Gillespie as she makes another run for the Bulldogs of Bucklin against the Bevier Wildcats.

Bucklin Places Third

STERN SMILES are given by these three boys who ended the baseball season with the highest batting averages. Greg Herriman finished with a .526 average, Marcus Collins with .500 and Freddie Cunningham with .333.

The boys first game of the season was played with Bevier. This proved to be a very close game. At the end of the game, Bevier had 10 runs to Bucklin's 9. John Cupp made three of the nine runs for the Bulldogs. Chitwood scored three runs for Bevier.

In the last game of the season, Bucklin defeated Meadville 6-2 in the conference tournament. As a result of this, Bucklin gained the third place trophy.

Tough Schedule Marks Bulldog Season

Bucklin varsity girls' team has gained much experience and knowledge in the art of maneuvering the ball from one player to another and putting it in the basket. Skill is required of all participants in this contest, as each phase takes a special knack of being where you are needed, when you are needed.

It also takes great dexterity on the part of the girls to be at the height of her ability throughout the entire game.

Our team was unable to outscore the opponents on every occasion but the squad was never unwilling to work together. This is proof that a great amount of success was achieved.

WHEN TIME OUT is called, Coach Suddarth is ready with last minute instructions for the team. The girls also help with information about their opponents.

SHOOTING ANOTHER jump shot from the side, Leora Davis scores once again. This was one of the many shots that made her high scorer for the season.

UNDER THE PRESSURE of being guarded, Linda Finney shoots a set shot about twelve feet out. Linda contributed to much of the scoring.

GETTING THE BALL at half court, Nancy Heaton is preparing to set up another play. Nancy was responsible, quite often, for setting up plays.

"SWIFT DRIBBLING and long passing makes up a basketball game," says Karen Hill. Her defensive playing made it tough for the opponent to score.

Active Year for Bulldog Cagers

"WHERE ARE THE OTHER FOUR PLAYERS?" wondered Gary Pettit when he got tied up in the corner. He contributed a sufficient number of points to become second high scorer.

Starting in mid-October the Bulldog ball team had a long way to go. Coach Suddarth worked hard each night to improve the boys' physical conditions and basketball fundamentals. During the busy season, the team started to show constant improvement toward team work and ability. With keen competition in their conference, it made games tough and challenging. Taking the lead almost every game, the boys made small but important mistakes which gave the other team the chance to overtake them and maintain the lead. Stressing sportsmanship, Coach Suddarth strived to bring out the best in each basketball player.

Looking into the future the junior high girls are getting their experience young. Striving for new skills the team drilled on plays and fundamentals every practice in expectation of a winning game. Coach Suddarth and the girls had close and exciting games which put more pep and experience into the seventh, eighth, and ninth grade girls. When the games were over and all was seemingly lost, the team knew they played to the best of their ability and had learned just a little bit more.

"GET RID OF THE BALL QUICK," said Pat Carter, "before I'm caught traveling." Pat was a quick thinker out on the basketball floor.

The seventh, eighth, and ninth grade boys came out for the junior high basketball team with the intentions of learning and improving basketball skills. The boys and Coach Suddarth worked diligently to maintain physical coordination for the forthcoming season.

Their anxiety for more experience was proven when they participated in practice with the high school boys' team. Even when the boys failed to out-score their opponents in the few scheduled games, they still retained their eagerness and enthusiasm.

PLAYING GUARD POSITION, David Schillinger brings the ball down court in a careful manner. David was noted for dribbling through tough defenses.

ACTIVITIES

DURING THE ASSEMBLY the freshman band, directed by Galen Switzer, played several selections for the enjoyment of the spectators and seniors.

INITIATES FELL to the floor at the words of "AIR-RAID," and arose after doing a certain amount of push-ups.

Freshman Initiation

Many new and unusual garments were fashioned this year, including bathing suits, burlap originals, overalls, and bologna necklaces for the traditional Freshman Initiation.

At an assembly the freshmen displayed talents such as washing feet, rolling peanuts, and twisting. The day was enjoyed by one and all.

ON INITIATION DAY this group of freshmen posed for their picture to be taken at the end of the assembly, as they became a part of the student body.

TWISTING IN THESE "SO-CALLED" GLAMOROUS COSTUMES are members of the freshman class on Initiation Day.

Freshman Luncheon

On October 5, 1962, the annual Freshman Luncheon was held in the Bucklin School.

The tables were decorated with bouquets of flowers, white tablecloths, and royal blue napkins, the class colors.

Vicki Hill, president of the freshman class, gave a welcoming speech and then the parents were introduced by members of the freshman class.

After the dinner, a program was presented with the help of their sponsors, Mr. Kelso and Mr. Foot.

Seniors Present

"Budding Genius"

April 24, 1962

"TWO WEEKS from Saturday night?" asked Gladys (Janet Head). "Okay, baby, it's a date," remarks Tommy (Marvin Mendenhall).

"IT FEELS SO GOOD just to sit down in peace and comfort, instead of being doubled up in a waste-basket," remarks Thomas (Winston Bailey).

"I MET ONE of the most repulsive men in my life today. I mean one of the most repulsive men I have ever met. Don't think my life is full of men, repulsive or otherwise," comments Minnie (Belita Sappington).

SYNOPSIS

Dollars to doughnuts, Tommy Britton is just about the best bean grower in town. So there's some excitement when he gives up his weekly column of gardening tips in his dad's small weekly newspaper in order to be a Great Writer ... With A Message. He's not sure what the Message is, he explains to Linda Weaver, his cute high school classmate who lives next door, but he's going to write it anyhow. For the first time in years, he fails to enter his usually prize-winning peas and radishes and soon in the annual county fair. Instead, he sends off his maiden story, "Shakespear's Onions," to a national magazine. Trouble develops when Tommy's uncle, Thomas Britton, a Pulitzer Prize winning author, arrived for a visit, and announces he has just sent his latest story to the same magazine. The title? You guessed it! From there on in, there's trouble a-plenty. As a would-be genius, Tommy runs hog wild; he mars the beautiful friendship developing between his famous uncle, and his mother's spinster sister. When a check arrives from the publishers, he blithely cashes it, and invites half the teenagers in town to attend a Super Party. They do; it's quite a party! At its peak, there's one item after another of bad news for Tommy. At the end, however, with an unexpected assist from Linda, he's back on an even keel, and comparative peace reigns in the Britton home.

CATCHING TOMMY (Marvin Mendenhall) deep in thought as he attempts to write his book, Shakespear's Onions, Flash shoots him unexpectedly.

SYNOPSIS

At Mrs. Whitcomb's country store, business has not been flourishing. It has been so bad, in fact, that the stock is very much run down. However, Mrs. Whitcomb is trying to arrange for a small loan so that she can buy new stock, hoping that she can get the trade of the summer colony near by. In her absence, Dorothy and Dick Whitcomb are keeping store. Mulligan, a patent medicine man, arrives, followed by a group of children. He gives a glowing account of his bottled magic, which impresses the children greatly, and he sells them a bottle.

After his departure, it occurs to Dorothy that possibly the old drawers behind the counters contain articles which could be used to help fill the empty shelves. They find, however, that the drawers contain nothing but some old-fashioned clothing, jewelry, and silver which the children consider worthless.

Mrs. Skinner and her daughter, Eileen, haughty customers from the summer colony, visit the store and are very supercilious about its keepers and its stock. Finally, however, they see some of the old jewelry, and Mrs. Skinner offers to buy a piece of it for a quarter. At this moment, however, Mulligan rushes in and asks the children to hide him, as some one is after him. He is scarcely concealed when Pete Nosey, a correspondence school detective, arrives searching for a man wanted by the police. There is much excitement with Mulligan disguising himself comically in a Mother Hubbard dress and bonnet, as Pete rushes about hunting for his man and threatening the children with disaster if they do not hand him over. Mrs. Skinner finally tells Pete that Mulligan is the man he is looking for. Mulligan proves to be the wrong man, however, and Pete goes reluctantly away.

At the end all turns out well, thanks to Mulligan's Magic.

MULLIGAN (Mark Nickerson), a patent medicine man, prescribes his "cure all" remedy as friends and neighbors look on.

HAUGHTILY EXPLAINING to shopkeeper Keith Switzer and David Schillinger that stores in the city are much better is Mrs. Skinner (Pat Carter).

FISHING ENTHUSIASTS gather at the store to hear of Mulligan's magic medicine which was said to shine bald heads, gold teeth, insides, etc.

Junior-Senior Prom and Banquet

On May 12, 1962, the junior class of Bucklin High School presented the annual Junior-Senior Prom entitled "Moonglow on Memory Island." As the guests entered the banquet room, they were met by two tones of blue and one of silver streamers draped from the ceiling to the floor. After a deliciously filling meal and very entertaining program, they retired to an elaborately decorated auditorium where music from the Pete Sommers' Band floated through the air to greet them. As they entered the auditorium, they passed through a crepe-paper streamer hallway into the ballroom. Here they saw the band in a huge crepe-paper birdcage whose streamers extended from the very top of the auditorium. Off to one side of the bandcage was Memory Island with two life-size mock palm trees overlooking a love seat. Occupants of the love seat were limited to two minutes. Shining down on Memory Island and drenching it in moonglow was a miniature moon, as the juniors were unable to depend on the real thing.

Although the moon was not authentic, the wonderful time had by all formed very real memories for all of those who attended.

DEPARTING ON THEIR TRIP, the graduates attempt to settle down and catch some sleep before arriving in Rolla.

AT JACKSON SQUARE in the French Quarter, Gary Kitchen along with other members of the tour, had their portraits painted.

ALTHOUGH not FILLED to CAPACITY, the Sugar Bowl is found to be a fascinating stadium by Judy Herriman and Bonnie Heaton.

JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, the state capital city, offered Southern charm and hospitality to our vacationing graduates.

Grand Climax

Days of Fun and Pleasure

The senior class of 1962 left Bucklin at 11:30 P. M., May 16, on the first part of their six day tour of the South. They arrived in Rolla early the next morning where they boarded their K. L. M. bus and set out for Biloxi and New Orleans.

Highlights of the trip were: sailboating, swimming in the Gulf, visiting the French Quarter, dining and dancing in the Blue Room in New Orleans, Lake Pontchartrain Amusement Park, and the Battlefield at Vicksburg.

The seniors returned filled with wonderful memories of their last trip together and the wish that every class could have the opportunity to make a similar tour to enjoy the "Wonders of the South."

DURING the Senior Assembly, Mr. Gail Oehrke presents the D.A.R. History Award to Neva Joyce Standley. This award is presented annually by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

HONORARY ESCORTS were juniors, Carolyn Whisenand and Leroy Miller, and first graders, Scarlet Wolf and Bruce Dowell at Commencement and Baccalaureate.

The Sixth Annual Reco Frolics was presented October 19, 1962, by the Reco staff. Each year the Frolics is presented to aid in funds for publication of the Reco.

Countless evenings were spent rehearsing for an entertaining showing. Various skits, vocal numbers, novelty acts, a style show, stunts, and a trumpet trio were on the program.

The Reco staff once again found pleasure in producing this show.

"I'm a Family Crisis"

SYNOPSIS

Peggy, a delightful girl who talks too much, is tricked into an agreement to remain absolutely silent for the next 48 hours -- no matter what! Her girl friend, Gwen, is to stay with her to make certain she keeps the agreement. Gwen decides this would be a fine time for her to share the silent Peggy's boy friend, Willie.

Meanwhile Peggy's bewildered parents are convinced that something serious is wrong with the whole family. Relatives start coming and complications start mounting. Willie gives up with Peggy and decides to go along with Gwen. Then suddenly the 48 hours come to an end and Peggy takes action!

"HE'S TAKING ME, aren't you, Willie dear?" says Gwen as Peggy silently battles for Willie's attention.

"MY, HASN'T THIS BEEN an exciting evening? I just hadn't lived until I took your medicine, Syl," says Nellie (Karen Morris) to Uncle Syl (Donnie Head).

"AND YOU MUST PASS the supreme test of remaining absolutely quiet for the next 48 hours," says Julia to Peggy as Mary Lou and Gwen listen.

ONE of the DELIGHTFUL events of the Christmas Dance was a challenging game of ping-pong. Carolyn Whisenand and Roger Head were partners in this contest of skill.

Annual

Christmas

Dance

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING was spent dancing. The all favorite -- "Twist," is represented by Ronnie Yount, Judy Davolt, and Nancy Heaton.

"THE DANCE BAND" was a new addition to the Christmas Party this year. They provided several selections for those who wished to dance and those who cared to listen.

DISTRIBUTING THE CHRISTMAS GIFTS to the eager guests were Carolyn Whisenand, Wanda Hughes, and Donna Ervie. They busily attempted to please the waiting recipients.

A gala evening was enjoyed by the students and faculty at the annual Christmas party December 21, 1962.

This occasion consisted of dancing, ping-pong, bingo, card playing, and the Dance Band performed. In the latter part of the party, gifts were exchanged between classes. The refreshments were provided and served in the home economics room by the faculty.

As the evening progressed many memories passed through the minds of students and faculties of Christmas Dances past.

A LOOK of SURPRISE swept across the faces of Bucklin High School students as they anxiously opened their gifts at the faculty-sponsored party.

ASSISTING IN SENDING AN SOS during one of the assemblies were Galen Switzer and Frances Mendenhall. Galen's face was as red as the light bulb on his head.

"THE THERMAN," a new and unusual humming instrument, caught the eye and ear of members of the school.

"MUSICAL CHIMES" played by selected volunteers from the audience, provided a different and harmonious tone to "Bells of St. Mary."

AN OLD-FASHIONED GAME, musical hats, brought many laughs from the audience, especially when several hats wound up on the same person's head.

The students of Bucklin High appreciated the numerous assemblies during the year.

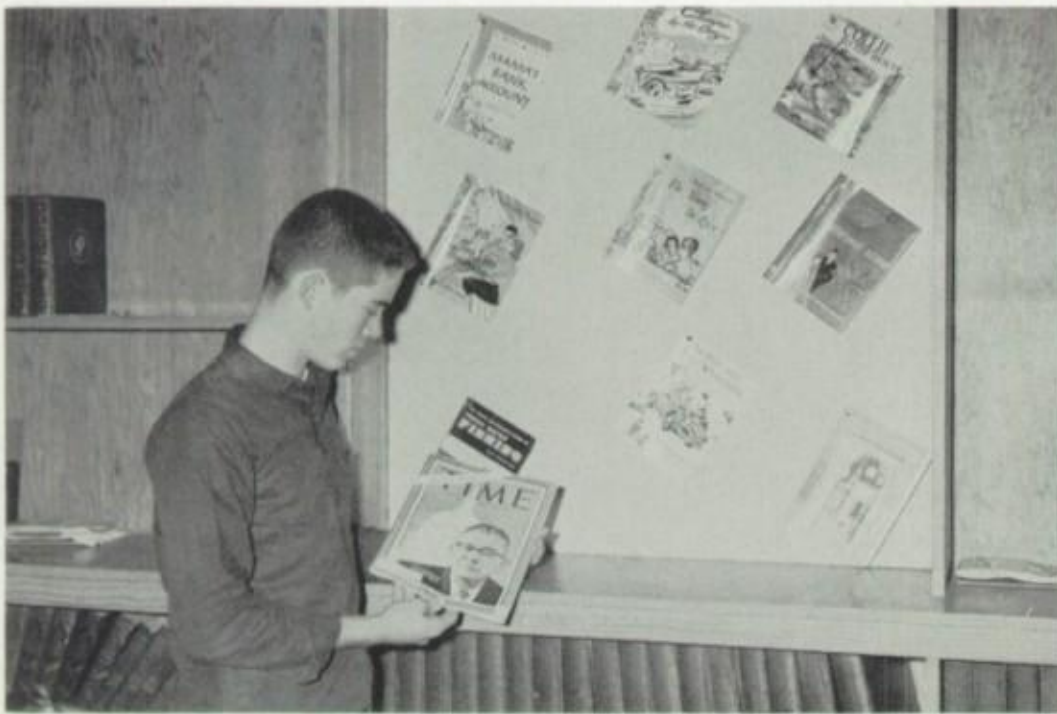

Each assembly produced education and interest among the student body.

These assemblies gave a different sort of entertainment from tight rope walking to bagpipes.

We wish to thank the University of Kansas for making these assemblies possible for us to enjoy. The representative of the University of Kansas and Mr. Oehrke met at the beginning of the school term and selected the assemblies for the oncoming year.

IT IS AN HONOR each year to have Sergeant Usher. His program delivers valuable advice plus interesting films and pictures about today's dangers in driving.

ONE OF the many jobs of the librarians is keeping books and magazines in order. Shown above is Paul McCarty looking at one of the magazines that has just arrived.

The librarians, under the direction of Miss Cannon, have the responsibility of helping students find wanted articles and books. They also check books in and out, keep books in order, keep the library clean, and keep the shelves supplied with the latest magazines, periodicals and "Best Seller" titles.

The student librarians make sure the library is a quiet, attractive, and efficient running part of the overall school system. They make eye-catching posters that promote education and they also decorate the library before holidays.

The caller is greeted with a cheery, "Hello, Bucklin School," as another student answers the phone. Besides helping to relieve the duties of the principal, superintendent, and secretary, the student office keepers receive valuable information in office work. Their duties are many and widely varied. A typical day may include substituting for a short period of time while the teachers have a meeting. Other duties include sorting mail, answering the phone, running errands, and just being of general help. Any office keeper can testify that the office is anything but dull.

SORTING the MAIL is one of the duties of Jimmie Walker, office keeper. He helps place the mail in the new letter holder recently constructed for the teachers.

Journalism Students Strive for

As the pages of the 1963 Reco turn, one may see the work and ambition put into this book by the members of the staff and Mrs. Kelso, the sponsor.

The Reco staff consists of sophomores, juniors, and seniors. The members of the Reco staff are divided into different groups, each being responsible for a certain section of the book.

Every member of the Reco staff has a feeling of responsibility of getting his part of the book done on time.

Money earned to help pay for the book is raised by trash pickups, subscriptions, advertisements, and a variety show.

Excellence in Publications

Besides the experience gained in journalism, leadership and initiative qualities are matured. Mrs. Carter endeavors to achieve leadership abilities with her twelve-member staff.

The Tel-it-al contains sections including editorials, news, announcements, sports coverage, and all topics of general interest for the elementary and high school students. Parents are enabled to keep up with school activities as gleaned from the bi-monthly school newspaper.

Operating expenses are earned by selling subscriptions of fifty cents per year and the advertising of local merchants.

Future Homemakers of America

INITIATION DAY! Prospects of the F.H.A. Club were forced to endure the humiliation of the initiation before they were considered full-fledged members.

WHITE ACCESSORIES complement Barbara Hunt's dress of an apricot, arnel blend. The P. T. A. audience was able to observe the many lovely fashions created by the students.

FASHIONING THEIR twin dresses are Carolyn Walker and Karen Morris. The garments are pink and white checked gingham, accented by costume jewelry and white gloves and shoes.

Style Show

"Evening in Paris"

May 2, 1962

Shown in a Parisian setting are Bonnie Heaton and Judy Herriman. They are enjoying a cup of tea after modeling their dresses in the Annual Fashion Show. Each girl in the home economics class modeled a garment that she made during the school year.

MR. OEHRKE (sponsor), Carter Sappington, Karen Hill, vice-president; Ralph Switzer, Carolyn Whisenand, president; David Schillinger, Judy Davolt, secretary & treasurer; Marcus Collins, Joan Liebhart.

AMONG the MANY JOBS of the Student Council members is decorating the Christmas tree for the Christmas Party.

Student Council

Class Representatives

One of the student organizations is the Student Council. The Student Council members are chosen by the classes. They must have at least an "M" average and good conduct records. Through the year the Student Council members have a moneymaking project. They sold sweatshirts with BUCKLIN and a bulldog on it. With the money that they have made, they sponsor the party after the Homecoming game and the Christmas Party.

Mrs. Herma Pettit, historian; Maxine Jobson, secretary; Lavena Burnham, president, Joan Oehrke, vice-president; Esther Turner, treasurer.

Parent - Teachers Association

Parents and teachers join together in the P.T.A. to endeavor to better the school for their children and students. Among their many activities this year the P. T. A. sponsored a health and dental clinic. New furniture was bought for the teachers' lounge and a new flag for the flag pole.

Some educational television films were shown for variety at the meetings. In addition to this, they served a dinner for the Planned Progress. The P.T.A. also served at the basketball games.

Parents Take Interest in School Organizations

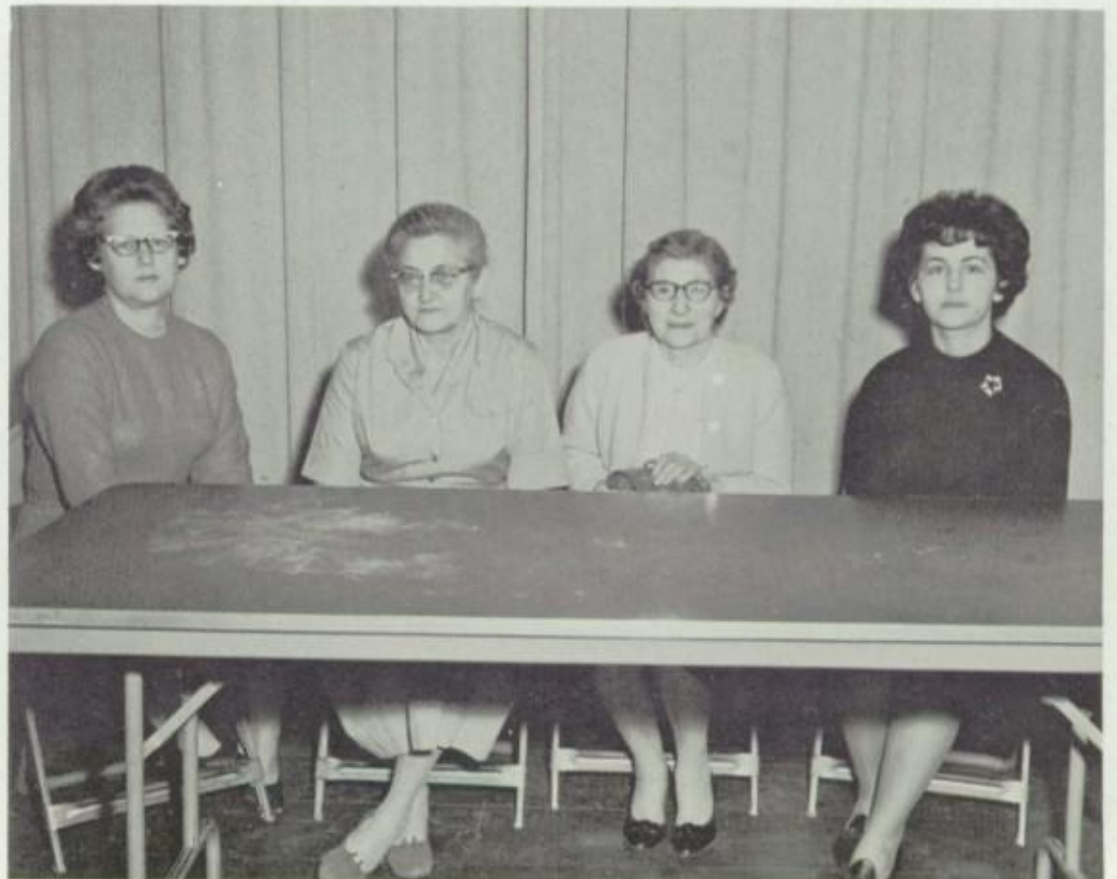

Mrs. Herma Pettit, president; Mrs. Thelma Anderson, vice-president; Mrs. Lena Millsap, secretary; Mrs. Marilyn Stanley, treasurer.

Band Boosters

An important functioning organization of our school is the Band Boosters. The objectives of this group are to "boost" the band in every way possible.

The Band Boosters realize the ever-present need to have money in the band treasury for purchases of new uniforms, new instruments and accessories, cleaning and refitting old uniforms, and instrument repairs.

Funds were obtained from several different projects. Birthday and activity calendars were sold. The Band Boosters served the Harvest Day dinner for the Bucklin Chamber of Commerce.

Seniors--Leading the Way

Echoes of the past mingled with dreams for the future as the last year of school approached for the seniors.

Futures were molded as vocations were accepted and rejected by the hopeful seniors. However, graduation was the main concern for the present.

The class and sponsors were invited to visit the Moorman Feed Company in Quincy, Illinois. The tour was very interesting and informative. Bountiful refreshments were provided for the group.

New formals were bought and suits were pressed as Prom night approached. Nostalgia was present as many realized this would be their last dance as seniors. But even that could not keep them from having a wonderful time dancing into the night.

Money for the senior trip to New Orleans, Louisiana, was earned by magazine sales, concession stands at ball games, car washes, the senior play, Ozark Opry, and numerous other activities.

Juniors

Treading the Pathway of Knowledge

All of the juniors seem to agree that the third year of high school was the busiest and the most enjoyable.

It was a year filled with many outside activities--receiving of class rings, candy sales, and the annual junior play. The '63 juniors presented "I'm a Family Crisis" on the night of November 31. Many rehearsals were attended by the sponsors, Miss Cannon and Miss Potts, and the cast.

Aside from all the other activities, the juniors served in the concession stand at numerous ball games.

The responsibility of the annual Junior-Senior Prom and Banquet fell heavily on the shoulders of this class. Many important decisions and preparations had to be made concerning this memorable occasion.

Most of the juniors are anticipating the day when they will no longer be looked at as underclassmen, but instead, at the top of the high school "ladder."

CONCENTRATING on the next play in a lively game of cards at the Christmas Dance are Jimmie Walker, Ronnie Yount, Robert Davis and Gary Johnson.

"TAKE THAT!" thought the silent Peggy (Linda Gillespie) as Gwen (Nancy Lambert) attempted to steal her boy friend.

Sophomores

Gaining Confidence with Each Step

The second time around is always the easiest, or at least the sophomores of Bucklin High seem to think it was.

The year was far from dull for them. The class had one car wash, sold Christmas wrapping paper, ribbon, tape, and corsages to earn money. They also had the concession at several ball games. Their sponsors, Mr. Suddarth and Mr. Meeks were very helpful.

The class enjoyed a skating party at Macon skating rink. Each student was allowed to invite one guest. Their sponsors and several parents were the chaperones. The class had a large percent of pupils on the honor roll.

EXPERIENCE is EVIDENT as Billy Holmes efficiently fills an order for Norma Standley during his shift at the concession stand.

HAPPILY RECEIVING CAMERAS from Mr. Suddarth as a prize for selling the most paper and ribbon are Brenda King and Linda Finney.

DISPLAYING paper and ribbon sold by the class are Carolyn Walker, Dorothy Switzer, and Nylene Stone.

Freshmen

Accepting the Responsibility of Tomorrow

The freshmen soon adjusted to all of the newness of their first year of high school. Mistakes like forgetting which locker was whose and which class followed another were not uncommon.

The members of the class were not officially in high school until they were initiated by the seniors. This provided hilarity for all. Even the "victims" were forced to laugh at the outlandish costumes worn.

Their sponsors, Mr. Kelso and Mr. Foot, aided them in planning the Freshman Luncheon. Parents and teachers were the guests. Entertainment was provided by the class.

Twelve cases of candy were sold to help build up the treasury. Each class member sold a specified amount. They had the concession stand at several ball games.

MAKING a last minute check of the food at the Freshman Luncheon are Betty Twitchel and Vicki Griffin.

"ROGUE'S GALLERY" seems best to suit this picture of the freshmen on Initiation Day. These beautiful creations were assigned by the seniors.

CANDY SALES helped to increase the class treasury. Each student took a certain number of boxes and was responsible for their sale.

PARENTS, FACULTY, and guests were welcomed to the Freshman Luncheon as a committee of students presented them with name tags.

MAKING PREPARATIONS for the regional tournament, Mike Behrman and David Schillinger mark the dressing rooms for the visiting teams.

"IT'S ALWAYS HANDY to have a friend around to hold my coat," Carter Sappington says to Freddie Cunningham.

ACROBATIC CLOWNS with their unusual antics succeeded in amusing the spectators at the Homecoming.

EVIDENTLY THESE BOYS aren't too worried over the coming class periods, as they congregate in a rather informal fashion before the first bell rings.

SLEEPING on STAGE, in front of an audience seems to be quite a problem for Gary Pettit as he appears in the Reco Frolics one-act play.

REFRESHMENTS were SERVED by the Student Council in the home economics room at the conclusion of the Homecoming basketball game.

OUR EXPRESSION OF THANKS

The '62-63 Reco Staff would like to thank the many people who have helped this year, in any way, to make the production of our annual possible.

Never could enough credit be bestowed upon our sponsor, Mrs. Kelso, who was always there to help each individual with his problems. We are all indebted to our parents who let us be away from home so often when we were needed there, and a thank you to our teachers who let us out of classes during the last week when we were rushed to meet publication deadlines.

Our fine and skilled photographers need much praise and thanks. Those who rendered their services were: Mr. W. H. Ikenberry for the senior and formal group pictures, Mr. Jim C. Harvey for the pictures in the album section, and to Mr. John Kelso for activity and action shots.

A most sincere debt of thanks goes, of course, to our fine advertisers. Without them our book could never be published.

In behalf of Mrs. Kelso and the Reco Staff, we wish to say thank you to Mr. Robert Powell and his staff at Pischel's who took a personal interest and did such a fine job of publishing this edition of "The Reco."
